CABELA'S SHOWCASES RUSTIC FURNITURE LINE INCORPORATING WYOMING SNOWFENCE

Home and cabin catalog prominently features Centennial Woods products

LARAMIE, WYO. (December 4, 2009)—Centennial Woods announced today that leading outdoor retailer Cabela's (NYSE: CAB) has chosen to feature furniture built using Wyoming reclaimed snowfence in its just released home and cabin catalog. The Wyoming Bedroom Collection, fabricated by Mountain Woods Furniture, incorporates substantial Centennial Woods products in its aesthetic, green design. The collection is shown on the cover and contents page of the catalog. Photos of the collection can also be seen on the web at <http://www.mountainwoodsurniture.com/reclaimed/index.htm>.

"We're honored that our dealers including Cabela's are highlighting this new collection to their customers," said Mike O'Connell, co-owner of Mountain Woods. "As founding members of the Sustainable Furniture Council, Centennial Woods' reclaimed snowfence product fits perfectly into our eco-friendly philosophy while also making this an extremely attractive product."

"This wonderful collection is an excellent way to bring the history, beauty, and responsibility of reclaimed snowfence into homes and commercial spaces," said Mike Thomas, chief operating officer of Centennial Woods. "I can imagine no better way to complement our floors, ceilings, wainscoting and trim than to place one of these wonderful pieces in the room."

Centennial Woods reclaims and processes snowfence materials into exterior products like siding and soffit and interior products like flooring, ceiling treatments, trim and wainscoting. The unique wood is also increasingly used for furniture, doors, window trim, cabinets and specialty fixture applications. The wood comes in five basic natural color schemes, in 1x6, 2x6, and 2x8 inch dimensions and in lengths up to 16 feet.
